Nobody Would Ask Me, But:

Owlie has to keep remembering, or recalling, that he is not young as man measures the years of life. He must also rejoice in the fact that he has maintained a lifetime interest in what is going on in this world as well as having taken a large part in the developments which are represented by the advances visible in that part of the country where he makes his home. He also revels in the fact that he finds great pleasure in the accomplishments of the fortunate young men who become a part of his beloved Fraternity.

However, he has had the chance to come up against one of man's common faults — ingratitude — on more than one occasion: The mere fact that one person seems unable, or unwilling, to say "Thank You" for a favor done or a kindness shown. How often has he offered his services to persons needing counseling, advice, friendship or any of life's needs to others, only to find that more than a great majority of those so favored have never learned that a kind word of thanks or appreciation is the least that can be returned to him who has gone out of his way to be of assistance.

Owlie has heard, from time to time, of ingratitude shown by one member of his beloved Fraternity to another. These instances are rare to be sure, but they have occurred. On occasion, reviewing the undergraduate activities of one or another of his Brothers, he has found that the whole chapter membership gave some one Brother the chance to become a leader on a campus or to be the leading influence in the Chapter. Then that magic day of commencement comes, this leader is handed his diploma, accepts it, and moves on into the life for which his four years at the college or university had prepared him. Then what happens?

Surely, this Brother must remember when the leaders in his Chapter huddled together to write the usual appeal to alumni to contribute the funds needed to absorb a great proportion of the rushing expense, or repair a leaking roof. He must also recall how pleasant it was to know that so many who had gone before him had remembered their "good old days," and sent along a small or large contribution. He must remember also how much this response from Chapter alumni meant to the success of the several rushes which took place while he was an undergraduate, and to the financial stability of his Chapter.

Now he has gone out into his chosen field of endeavor. He receives, for the first time, "The Rushing Fund Letter." And what happens? Nothing. The postage and the letter do not strike a responsive chord. He cannot find himself willing to give back to his chapter some small part of himself so that it may go on to maintain the standards of excellence and campus position he knew in his days as an undergraduate.

Similarly, when he moves from one address to another, he does not remember to advise the Chapter, or the headquarters office of the Fraternity. Then these letters addressed to him come back from the post office "Undeliverable,"/"Not known at this address," and those other unhappy reports sent when a letter cannot find its mark. As the years go on, this costs the chapter more and more because Uncle Sam charges for returning such letters to the source of their origin — the chapter house. None of this occurs to, or bothers, the ingrate. It should. It should bother us all.

Why all this stress upon the ungrateful among us? There have been members of chapters who have graduated and gone on into a successful life who left behind a small or large bill by the way of dues, dining bills, or other charges unpaid. Yet with all of their present means they seem to forget completely how much these small sums would mean to the active chapter if they were paid. Fortunately, these Brothers are few, but they've earned our scorn and pity.

How often have you heard that there are over 17,000 living Psi U alumni at large in the world? Too often perhaps. Yet when the Annual Giving Campaign comes to an end the report says that 1,700 or 1,800 of the alumni have given an ever-increasing number of dollars to help keep the business end of the Fraternity from going into the "red." Why should the number be 10 to 11 per cent of the alumni? Why should it not be 25 per cent or 50 per cent? Maybe, someone has the answer. Owlie does not nor has he heard of a satisfactory response. Perhaps it is ingratitude.

This year's campaign is under way. Perhaps the slogan should be for all of the alumni who can give, to give. It would prove to all the world that the Psi U experience was worth being grateful for.

Wednesday, August 22, 1979 — the day the 136th Convention will convene.

The U of M will be closed during this time between summer and fall classes. Consequently, the Normandy Inn has been selected to house the delegates and to host many of the meetings. It is located on the edge of downtown Minneapolis, two and a half miles from the Chapter House. It is an ideal place for a convention, with 250 rooms, ample dining and meeting areas, all air conditioned, and a wet bar and wetter swimming pool. There is ample free parking. While most of the activity will take place here, the Mu Chapter House will be used for special events.

Delegates arriving by plane may take the airport limo direct to the Normandy Inn, where the registration desk will be set up in the lobby. By 6:00 p.m.

Halls of the Mu, University of Minnesota, headquarters for this year's convention at Minneapolis.

Over 70,000 students — daytime, evening and extension — attend the University of Minnesota at five campuses statewide. Largest is the Twin Cities Campus, with its own U of M Mall.

Wednesday, all will have been taken to the Mu for a buffet dinner, followed by Regional Conferences for all undergraduate delegates. The beer tap will be open!

On Thursday, August 23, there will be meetings of the Executive Committee of the Council and additional Regional Conferences in the morning at the Inn. After lunch will be the opening general meeting, followed by the first Standing Committee meetings. The Executive Council will meet at 8:00 p.m. in the chapter house, and all are invited to attend this meeting. At 10:30 p.m., all delegates and alumni are invited to meet at Pontillo's Pizzeria, owned and operated by Brothers Roger Schelper and Mick Stenson, both Mu '71, for a pizza, hoagie and beer supper until about 1:00 a.m., when transportation will be provided back to the Inn.

The morning and part of the afternoon on Friday will be devoted to meetings at the Inn. Local alumni will be invited to the luncheon, following which will be the convention picture. At 4:00 p.m., everyone will leave by bus and cars for Lake Minnetonka, some twenty miles west of the city, for a late afternoon and evening of boating, tennis, swimming, water sports and dinner at the Brothers Thomas' Lake Place, owned and operated by four Mu (and blood) Brothers! Beer will flow from a refrigerated truck with taps on the side. The outing should prove to be one of the highlights of the convention!

Saturday, August 25, will be devoted to meetings all day, with lunch again included. At 6:30 p.m., all will meet at the Minneapolis Club, a block away from the Inn, for cocktails hosted by the Executive Council, followed by the banquet in one of the finest dining rooms west of the Mississippi. The decor and atmosphere of the club will combine to make a fitting finale to the convention. Afterwards, all delegates are invited to the Mu Chapter House.

A Ladies' Committee has been set up to arrange shopping and sightseeing tours for visiting wives.

Plan now to come to the "Land of Sky Blue Water" and see some of the 10,000 lakes. Stay awhile for some fishing, or drive into the North Woods or along Lake Superior, or attend the Minnesota State Fair (largest in the country), which begins August 24 for ten days.

The driving distance from Chicago is 420 miles. Road distance from New York is 1,299 miles — or less if Chicago is avoided through use of one of several Lake Michigan car-ferry services. By plane, Minneapolis is only fifty-five minutes from Chicago and two and one-half hours from New York (from which a charter flight is being arranged). Amtrak also provides regular service to Minneapolis.

Welcome, Brothers, to the Mu in August!

Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller, Zeta '30

As many Brothers around the world already know, Brother Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller, Zeta '30, died at his New York City headquarters January 26, 1979. An in-depth article on this philanthropist, statesman, former Governor of New York and former Vice President of the United States will appear in a future issue of THE DIAMOND.

Convention: 'Twas great in '78 . . .

Xi Chapter Hosts 1978's 135th Convention of Psi Upsilon .

The singing of the "Shrine Song" by over 200 Brothers present at the final banquet closed a very special event in the year 1978 for Psi Upsilon. The 135th Convention at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Connecticut, was distinguished by fine fellowship, good food and an earnest interest in the future of our Fraternity. The convention also marked the 135th anniversary of the founding of the Xi Chapter. Many Xi Brothers returned to celebrate this event in the beautiful Chapter House.

Tuesday, August 22, saw undergraduate delegates gather at four Regional Conferences in order to facilitate discussion of mutual concerns. At the same time, the Executive Council convened for its Summer Meeting in the Xi Chapter room. The fifteen members present heard reports of the state of the Fraternity and exchanged ideas regarding the reorganization of the Council.

Fine weather greeted those who arrived in Middletown on Wednesday. Willie Kerr, Iota '57, and Provost of Wesleyan, presided over the luncheon. His inimitable style was complemented by the outstanding libations provided by the Xi. Chef Roland Parent outdid himself in presenting a full menu at all meals.

The convention opened as Robert W. Morey, Pi '20, President of the Executive Council, was elected President of the Convention. Thomas Leghorn, Delta '77, served as Recorder. The general meeting divided into committees which discussed the Fraternity's issues in depth. These committees made reports to the general assembly as the convention progressed. Highlights of the proceedings included recognition of the revival of the Rho Chapter, the announcement that the International Fraternity had ended the year in the black, and a thorough discussion of the Fraternity's position on hazing. All active Chapters were represented at the meetings.

The outstanding feature of the convention was the Thursday afternoon outing at St. Clements Estate located in nearby Portland, Connecticut. The estate's spacious manor, with magnificent great hall and stained glass windows, was open to the inspection of the Psi U visitors. Many chose to relax on the bluff overlooking the Connecticut River. The softball, volleyball and frisbee games never abated.

Halls of the Xi, Wesleyan University, headquarters for last year's convention.

For all, it was an enjoyable afternoon to further the associations between Brothers of all Chapters.

The business sessions were closed by Brother Morey Friday afternoon, August 25. Delegates returned to their dormitory or motel rooms to rest before the evening's festivities. Many Connecticut alumni and a contingent of Delta undergrads arrived to bolster the Psi U numbers. At the cocktail hour, potables were distributed with great dispatch, setting the stage for a lively evening.

The "Doxology" served as an introduction not only to a fine dinner but to hearty singing led by the Xi and Delta Chapters. After toasts to the Queen and the President, Toastmaster Kerr presented the Chairmen of the Convention Committees and others seated on the dais. Included among them was Robert I. Laggren, Xi '13, the oldest living alumnus of his Chapter.

The President of Wesleyan University, Colin G. Campbell, Chi '57, welcomed the Brothers and their wives to Wesleyan, and thereafter devoted his remarks to the place of fraternities in our colleges and universities. After some remarks by Three distinguished members of Psi Upsilon headed the convention head table at the Xi: Carlyle F. Barnes, Xi '48, keynote speaker; Colin G. Campbell, Chi '50, President of Wesleyan University; and Robert W. Parsons, Xi '22, Life Member of the Executive Council.

Timothy S. Hollister, Xi '78, came an inspiring address by Carlyle F. (Hap) Barnes, Xi '48. He commented on the problems faced by business firms today and exhorted those present to participate in the American system. His fine words were followed by the linking of hands for the "Shrine Song." The moment of quiet following our hymn marked the end of the 135th Convention.

Convention Notes

. . . Many Xi men worked hard to make the 135th Convention a success. The Honorary Convention Committee consisted of C. Everett Bacon, '13; Robert I. Laggren, '13; Harold G. Travis, '20; and Robert W. Parsons, '22. The Co-Chairmen were U. Hayden Brockway III, '43, and Frederick C. Maynard III, '80. Members of the committee included Stephen W. Cornell, '35; Donald S. Smith, '39; Russell Gregory, '42; Crawford B. Thompson, '51; James J. Brakonieccki, '77; Lewis D. Gitlin, '79 and J. Gordon Cooney, '81.

. . . At convention time, the movie "Animal House" was playing in the neighborhood of Middletown. This satirical treatment of fraternal life was looked upon with great and glowering frown by the elders in our organization, but boys will be boys, and they made up their minds to see the show.

The one problem was how to sneak in a few six packs of beer for consumption during the performance — an act not likely to be looked upon with favor by the

33 MICHIGAN STATE STUDENTS CRAM IN RABBIT!

Last May, 33 Psi Upsilon undergrads followed their fathers' footsteps straight into the heart of a Volkswagen.

For those too young to remember, Volkswagen a generation-stuffing was a national craze. Near as anyone can tell, 21 hula-hooping students was the world's record.

But the old Volkswagen ain't what she used to be; she's a Rabbit now. And a whole lot bigger now. Especially inside.

And she's a whole lot sparkier now, too. She'll do 0-50 even quicker than some sports cars.

The Rabbit's even more economical than Volkswagens of yesteryear. 38 mpg highway, 25 mpg city. (1978 EPA estimates with standard transmission. Your mileage may vary depending on how and where you drive, optional equipment and car's condition.)

Fact: there isn't a car on the road that, overall, holds as much, performs as zippily, runs as cheaply, and still handles as well as a Rabbit.

The one thing left of the old Volkswagen spirit is the old Volkswagen spirit itself. The sheer fun. The satisfaction of getting your money's worth. The joy of owning something that actually works. The kick of being ahead of the times.

There are over 250 different cars on the American market. Yet who would ever dream of stuffing 33 grunting grown-ups — just for the hell of it — into anything but a Volkswagen.

Maybe that says it all.

VOLKSWAGEN DOES IT AGAIN

STUFF IT! That's what the ad man said and that's what 33 Epsilon Nu Brothers did, cramming into a VW Rabbit on the Michigan State campus and landing on the pages of Nutshell magazine. The crowd scene, and accompanying prose, are reproduced here courtesy of Doyle, Dane, Bernbach, Inc., and Volkswagen of America.

management of the theater. However, ingenuity triumphed. One of the older alumni present was besought to attend the picture. He agreed and the plan was set. He was seated in a wheel chair and covered from head to foot with blankets, under which the boys concealed no reported number of bottles of beer. They wheeled him up to the box office where the manager was moved by the sight of this obvious invalid desiring to patronize his establishment. Consequently he was wheeled in very carefully and ensconced in a desirable location.

From there on it is history. The young men removed the bottles of brew from under the blanket for distribution among themselves. One of those who attended commented that his feet were constantly being hit by empty bottles rolling down toward the front of the theater. A good time was apparently had by all, particularly the alumnus who posed as the invalid. This report came from him. No requests for identity will be honored.

. . . The Epsilon Nu Chapter caused some sensation when copies of Nutshell, an annual magazine devoted to campus interests across the continent, appeared in the hands of the delegates. On page 67 a full-color ad for the Volkswagen Rabbit, crammed full with thirty-three members of the Chapter. The advertisement made it clear that the young men were members of Psi Upsilon and carried a picture to prove the point.

The Xi Chapter is "vital, vibrant, flourishing," according to Wesleyan University President Colin G. Campbell, Chi '50, who addressed the 135th Convention.

A Psi U Welcomes Psi U's . . .

Remarks by Colin G. Campbell, Chi '57, President of Wesleyan University, at the 135th Convention, August 25, 1978.

It is surely a little late for me to be welcoming you to Wesleyan; most of you have been here for several days. But I am glad you are here. I hope that your visit has been thoroughly enjoyable and your convention productive. Your presence on this occasion demonstrates your continuing affection for and commitment to a great fraternity, as well as its continuing vitality. As a Brother and as a university president whose campus has gained immeasurably from the presence of the Xi of Psi Upsilon, I welcome that spirit.

The significance a healthy fraternity can have for the well-being of its host institution is sharply etched on my consciousness when I reflect on the contributions of the two Chapters of Psi Upsilon I know best — the Chi and the Xi. Brothers from both houses have not just been active in the affairs of Cornell and Wesleyan but dominant — whether it be through service on Board of Trustees or in alumni affairs, or, in the case of undergraduates, through participation in athletics, on student government, and in other extracurricular activities. And I know that these Chapters are not unique in their distinction. Members of Psi Upsilon have consistently led the way wherever a Chapter is located — to the great benefit of the nation's leading colleges and universities.

It should be particularly encouraging to note the continued preeminence of the Xi as an institution in a time when the fraternity system here, as elsewhere, has changed so markedly. In the last fifteen years the proportion of our undergraduates in fraternities has dropped from over 90 percent to less than 20 percent. This has occurred in a time of major transition for Wesleyan — from a small college of 1,000 undergraduates to a small university of 2,500, from single sex to co-education, from a fairly homogeneous to an extraordinarily diverse student body (socio-economically, racially, and geographically). Moreover, a wide range of housing options has evolved on this campus, some of which are extremely attractive, both socially and financially. This pluralistic approach to undergraduate life styles has added to Wesleyan's appeal to highly talented young men and women, but it has taken its toll on some of our fraternities.

Of course, it is not only Wesleyan which has changed a lot in recent years; we have witnessed an entire society in unusually turbulent transition as well. Young men and women have demonstrated a persistent yearning for new life styles, a dissatisfaction with things as they are; a distrust of institutions — including fraternities — as extensions of a system which too many sense is hostile to, rather than supportive of, meaningful life.

It is in this context — of a changing university and a changing society — that one must marvel at the staying power of the Xi of Psi Upsilon. It is a vital and vibrant place. In a style befitting a university deeply committed to liberal learning, I sense a liberating rather than a constricting atmosphere among today's undergraduate members. As a result, the Xi is flourishing, some might go so far as to say, against all odds; surely, it is flourishing in a more competitive setting with more attractive alternatives to fraternity life than existed in my day. There are, of course, a number of reasons that this is the case — a distinguished tradition, marvelous alumni support, understanding, and flexibility, and a distinctive national linkage are among them.

It is my impression that this strength exists at other Chapters as well. I surely hope so. To the degree that this is not the case, I sense that gatherings such as this one will encourage new efforts to make the weaker Chapters — in fact all of the Chapters — everything they have the potential to be. Your roles as leaders of the Fraternity are to aid in this process by being supportive, imaginative, and realistic about the future.

Experience tells us that a thriving, healthy, fraternity will be an enriching experience for all who are part of Psi Upsilon. Everyone gains under those conditions — the individual, the Fraternity, the college and the society.

So thank you for your efforts and for being at Wesleyan.

Psi Upsilon — Stronger Still

Address by Robert W. Morey, Pi '20, President of the Executive Council of Psi Upsilon, at the annual New York Founders' Day Dinner, November 16, 1978.

It is one of my greatest personal pleasures, as it must be for all of you, to gather together once every year to honor the Brothers who founded our Fraternity at Union College in 1833. Samuel Goodale, Sterling Goodale Hadley, Edward Martindale, and George Washington Tuttle, of the class of 1836, and Robert Barnard, Charles Washington Harvey, and Merwin Henry Stewart, of the class of 1837. Four of these Brothers won Phi Beta Kappa Keys and six went on to graduate or professional schools.

In addition, these annual dinners give us an opportunity to renew old friendships and relive for a few moments the happiest days of our lives, our four years at college. These fond memories are made more meaningful by the privilege we had in college of belonging to Psi Upsilon, which furnished us homes, encouraged our endeavors and gave us the social training so necessary to success throughout our various careers. For 145 years this fine old Fraternity has existed with "wide fame and proud name in college history." Psi Upsilon, once again we salute you!

The Past Decade

It is altogether fitting on an occasion such as this to look back over the last ten years and see how our beloved Fraternity has fared. This particular period has been most hectic for all fraternities, and Psi U has been no exception. The year 1968 was the peak of the student uprisings of the sixties. At that time, Psi U had thirty Chapters. During the last ten years, six of our Chapters have become inactive — Sigma at Brown University in 1969, Rho at the University of Wisconsin in 1971, Epsilon Phi at McGill University in Montreal in 1971, Epsilon at the University of California in 1972, Nu at the University of Toronto in 1973, and the Nu Alpha at Washington and Lee University in 1974. To partially offset these losses, two new chapters have been established, the Gamma Tau at Georgia Institute of Technology in 1970, and the Chi Delta at Duke University in 1973. And early this year, the Rho Chapter at the University of Wisconsin was re-established with ten active members and four pledges. Some of our other Chapters have experienced great difficulty, but they have been able to survive.

Heading for the 80's

This brings us back to today and where we stand now. I feel that the Fraternity at present is more closely knit than at any time in my own experience of eleven years on the Council. The Chapters know and appreciate each other due to annual regional conferences. The alumni have become much more interested and active, which is all to the good. My special interest, the undergraduate Brothers, are by and large industrious, loyal, responsible and studious — a decided change from the sixties. They are better students, I believe, than we were as undergraduates. They will redecorate a room at the drop of a hat, and they pay their bills.

Some of the Chapters have made remarkable progress. Our Delta Chapter at New York University was transferred in 1974 from the Bronx Campus to Greenwich Village with but four members. Since then, through hard work and massive help by the alumni, a new house has been made available, and the Chapter has twenty-nine members with twelve pledges. Our Lambda Chapter at Columbia, which in 1971 was down to two members, is now a thriving organization of twenty-four members and a new pledge class of twenty-two. The House is spotless and has been completely renovated. In addition, this chapter, with little outside help, has paid off a debt of $6,000 to the University during the last three years. One of the most outstanding recoveries has been made by the Xi Chapter at Wesleyan University. Ten years ago it was down to fifteen members and had troubles aplenty. Last summer it hosted the convention with the President of the student body, President of the senior class and six team captains enrolled in the house, and this fall they started with fifty-five members and a pledge class of twenty-six.

Our 1979 convention site, the Mu Chapter House at the University of Minnesota, has been completely renovated and redecorated by the alumni, and now has twenty-seven members and eleven pledges. The Theta Theta at the University of Washington, which once had over 100 members, declined to six members, but has been built back up to twenty-two members with a 1978 pledge class of twenty-four. The Zeta Zeta at the University of British Columbia is also on the mend with active alumni support, a house full of Psi U's and a pledge class of fifteen. Our first Southern Chapter, the Gamma Tau at Georgia Institute of Technology, founded only eight years ago, has won the Interfraternity Award for Scholarship for the last two years. They have purchased a new house largely through their own efforts, have twenty-three returning members and fourteen pledges this fall.

Contributions, Communications

Last year our alumni contributed over $61,000 toward the operating expenses of the Fraternity, the largest amount ever given, representing $33.13 per capita. Our computer people, the Epsilon Data Management Corp., which does business with over twenty fraternities, has advised us that this is the largest per capita gift of any fraternity. For the first time in five years we completed the last fiscal year ended June 30, 1978 with a small surplus. A new directory of the Fraternity is in the process of being published, the first one since 1955. Mike Huffman, our Field Director, has been in Montreal at the request of the alumni to see if it would be practical to re-establish that Chapter. We are healthy and strong, and all of this has been due to the hard work and minute attention to detail by our Executive Vice-President, Henry Poor, and Field Director Mike, both of whom deserve the thanks of the whole Fraternity.

Our one big problem this past year has been THE DIAMOND, which for various good reasons has not come out on time.

Joe Esquirol will remain as editor, and John Menzies, Don Piper, Mike Greenstein, and Dick Horstmann, all Pi Chapter alumni, have agreed to assemble the information and prepare it for publication. Ovid Bell, our printer, will meet with those concerned on November 27 in New York to iron out the details. This new arrangement should take a big load off the main office.

A Personal Note

This discourse could go on indefinitely, but like Apollo, I want to stop my chariot here and swig a mug of Psi U beer. I must tell you, however, how I feel about Psi U in the future. No organization is perfect, and there is always room for improvement. I'd like to see a little more formality in the Chapters and in Chapter meetings. I believe that a little more deference should be paid to the Seniors who have had three years of college and know the ropes. Their local advice and counsel is valuable. In return, these Seniors could take much interest in the underclassmen, guide and encourage them and become big Brothers. I would welcome more formality in the dining rooms. Perhaps a weekly formal dinner could be given before the Chapter meetings with tablecloths on the tables, good service, and the active members appearing in coats and ties. I'm sure they would be surprised at their good looks. Psi U has always turned out gentlemen with a keen sense of responsibility. The line of our old song "Tone, and tone alone, will place you in the lead" is only too true.

During the last five years I've learned much more from the undergraduates than I'm sure they have learned from me. We should all be proud of the achievements of this fine group of young Brothers, 1,200 strong, up from 950 in 1968. I'm delighted with the increased participation of our loyal and successful alumni in the affairs of the active chapters. Psi Upsilon indeed is on the move. Let's all participate and strive to make every college and university where our chapters exist a little better institution because Psi U is there.

"Until the sands of life are run
We'll sing to thee Psi Upsilon"

Rho Reactivated at Wisconsin

By Mike Huffman

Photographs by Pete Vredendregt, Rho '79

The Rho Chapter lives again! After a lapse of eight years, University of Wisconsin men were initiated into Psi Upsilon on April 29, 1978.

Sixty-five Psi U's representing ten Chapters were present for the evening's activities in Madison. The Edgewater, owned and managed by Austin H. Faulkner, Epsilon Nu '45, proved to be the ideal site for the event. Robert W. Morey, Pi '20, President of the Executive Council, conducted the initiation of nine men. They are:

Mark L. Ahlstrom, '79, Lake Delton
Timm L. Amundson, '79, Elm Grove
Bryant H. Klos, '81, West Salem
James L. Gallistel, '81, Ogema
Henry L. Huser, '81, Bagley
Don C. Lark, '83, Madison
Randolph H. Seiler, '82, Osseo
James A. Swanke, Jr., '80, Ladysmith
Peter J. Vredendregt, '79, Milwaukee

In addition, Guy N. Kieckhefer, Jr., '79, of Waukesha, was added to the lists of the Rho. Guy transferred in his junior year from Chicago, where he was initiated into the Omega Chapter.

After the initiation, the gathering moved upstairs to an open bar that rang with Psi U songs for several hours. A fine dinner was served to the high-spirited Psi U's.

Fraternity Field Director Mike Huffman, Zeta '77, emceed the program, which included remarks by six Presidents: Bob Morey, Pi '20, for the Executive Council; Jay Tompkins, Rho '36, for the Rho alumni; Guy Kieckhefer, Omega-Rho '79, for the Rho Chapter; Scott Downs, Omega '78, for the Chicago Chapter; Kevin Lum, Phi '79, for the Michigan Chapter; and Paul Stoddart, Mu '79, for the Minnesota Chapter. Many others took the opportunity to speak from the floor, hailing the return of the Rho. And of course there was a great deal of singing.

The evening drew to a close as the traditional Rho Founders' silver loving cup was filled and passed around the band of Brothers to the tune of the "Shrine Song." Later, many Brothers gathered at the Brat Haus in Madison to continue the festivities on into the night. It was an auspicious start for the Rho.

Since then, the Chapter has met weekly in the Memorial Union. The Brothers have received the support of Rho of Psi Upsilon, Inc., in their efforts to secure a place for Psi U on the Madison campus. It has not been easy going, but the Rho has persevered.

The Fall of 1978 saw the Chapter win an intramural basketball championship, with Psi U turning back a chapter of eighty men to earn red T-shirts reading "University of Wisconsin Intramural Champions." The Brothers also participated in the 1978 Convention, the annual alumni dinner in Milwaukee, and the 1979 Regional Conference.

Good news received recently indicates that the Chapter has secured an apartment on Langdon Street for the 1979-80 school year. This will provide a much-needed gathering place which the Psi U's can call "home." In addition, several alumni have been investigating the possibility of acquiring property for a permanent Chapter site on Langdon. The old Rho edifice, at 222 Lakelawn Place, has been irreversibly converted into an apartment building.

How did the Rho get started again? The Rho alumni and the Executive Council had agreed on the desirability of reviving the Chapter. In February, 1978, after some preliminary work, John Cousineau, Psi '78, and Mike Huffman traveled to Madison to seek undergraduates who might make good Psi U's.

Several Rho alumni, three Mu Chapter undergrads, and John Mace, Kappa '74, gathered with the prospects to discuss the potential of their association with Psi Upsilon. Their response was enthusiastic. A group of Omicrons journeyed from Illinois the next day and pledged the Wisconsin men. The new group met regularly to make their initiation banquet a success. That banquet, and the progress which has been made since that evening are indicative of the quality of members who now make up the Rho Chapter.

To the Rho, once again:

"Welcome, Brothers!"
